

The Lake Isle of Innisfree

by, William Butler Yeats

I will arise and go now,

and go to Innisfree,

And a small cabin build there,

of clay and wattles made;

Nine bean-rows

will I have there,

a hive for the honey-bee,

And live alone in the bee-loud glade.

And I shall have some peace there,

for peace comes dropping slow,

Dropping from the veils of the morning to where the cricket sings;

There midnight's all a glimmer,

and noon a purple glow,

And evening full of the linnet's wings.

I will arise and go now,

for always night and day

I hear lake water lapping

with low sounds by the shore;

While I stand on the roadway,

or on pavements grey,

I hear it in the deep heart's core.

Sonnet 116 : Let me not to the marriage of true minds

by, William Shakespeare

Let me not to the

marriage of true minds

Admit impediments.

Love is not love

Which alters when it

alteration finds,

Or bends with the

remover to remove.

○ no! it is an ever-fixed mark

That looks on tempests

and is never shaken;

It is the star to

every wandring bark,

Whose worth's unknown,

although his height be taken.

Love's not Time's fool, though rosy

lips and cheeks

Within his bending sickle's

compass come;

Love alters not with his brief hours and weeks,

But bears it out even

to the edge of doom.

If this be error and

upon me prov'd,

I never writ, nor no man ever lov'd.

She Walks In Beauty

by Lord Byron

She walks in beauty, like the night

Of cloudless climes and

starry skies;

And all that's best of

dark and bright

Meet in her aspect and her eyes;

Thus mellowed to that tender light

Which heaven to gaudy day denies.

One shade the more,

one ray the less,

Had half impaired the

nameless grace

Which waves in every raven tress,

Or softly lightens

o'er her face;

Where thoughts serenely

sweet express,

How pure, how dear their dwelling-place.

And on that cheek,

and o'er that brow,

So soft, so calm, yet eloquent,

The smiles that win,

the tints that glow,

But tell of days in

goodness spent,

A mind at peace

with all below,

A heart whose love

is innocent!
